Council looking to limit resident parking for new developments

By Adam Swift

It's a general consensus among City officials that parking and traffic are among the greatest challenges facing Chelsea.

But the best way to help ease clogged streets and ensure residents aren't endlessly circling their block to find an open parking spot are open to debate.

The latest proposal is an ordinance introduced by City Council President Damali Vidot and District 1 Councillor Robert Bishop seeking a change in the City's off-street parking requirements.

Under the proposal, the residents of any development or housing that is granted relief by the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) from the City's parking requirements won't be eligible to participate in the residential permit parking sticker program. Already, in Everett, City officials at their ZBA have been requiring new developments or expanded housing units in triple deckers to not participate in their parking sticker program. That tool has proven quite successful over past several months.

The Chelsea proposal will head to the Planning Board for a recommendation before coming back for a public hearing before the City Council.

"This will require any developer that comes into the city to put their money where their mouth is by asking tenants not to participate in the City parking program," said Vidot.

Bishop said it is unfair that larger developments come into the city and ask for and are granted well below the 1.5 parking spaces per unit required by the City.

"There are too many units and not enough parking," said Bishop. "Where do you think all those cars go? They go all over the streets, that's where they go."

"There is very little parking even in areas where there was once parking. This is something we should have done years ago."

District 6 Councillor Giovanni Recupero said that while developers promote the use of Ubers, Lyfts, and public transportation, the fact is that more development brings more cars into the city.

"There are more cars being registered in our city, our streets can't support all the cars," Recupero said.

If developers want to build in Chelsea, Recupero said they should do like they do in Boston and provide parking underneath the units.

Several councillors said there are still some questions

Roller Coaster Resort

Wynn applies uncertainty and certainty in run-up to opening

By Seth Daniel

In a journey that has zero time available for a detour, Wynn Resorts seemingly got off the freeway to smell the flowers last week.

Now, however, they seem to be back on the road to an opening on June 23, with President Bob DeSalvio telling the Massachusetts Gaming Commission (MGC) on Wednesday that Wynn will definitely open the resort at 10 a.m. June 23 – with the talks last Friday about a sale now being a distant memory.

Just when it seemed like the road was clear for cruising into the June 23 opening – preparing the building and conducting massive, quick trainings for workers in all facets of the operation – the company announced in a joint statement last Friday that it was considering an offer from MGM International (which operates the Springfield casino) to buy Encore Boston Harbor.

It was out of the blue, and few locally were informed of the new development in the constant roller coaster ride that has been the norm with the Wynn marriage in Massachusetts.

"Over the past several weeks, we have engaged in conversations around the potential sale of Encore Boston Harbor," read the joint statement from Wynn and MGM – a statement that came from Wynn. "They are very preliminary and of the nature that publicly traded corporations like ours often engage in, and in fact when opportunities such as this are presented, we are required to explore."

Then, late on Tuesday night, that all seemed to change with dueling statements from MGM and Wynn. "Wynn Resorts prides itself on the design, development and operation of the world's best integrated resorts," read the statement. "At times, world class assets attract the attention of others and our board takes seriously its fiduciary duty to review such interest. After careful consideration we have agreed to cease discussions with MGM Resorts. We remain committed to opening and operating Encore Boston Harbor as only Wynn Resorts is able to do."

It was as if the company risked it all on a roll of the dice, lost it all, and then won it all back.

The matter became quite stressful because the talk of a sale gets into murky, and time consuming territory.

The Massachusetts Gaming Commission (MGC) said it was preparing for a June 23 opening despite any talk of a sale. They said the $35 million fine for the company, the $500,000 fine for CEO Matt Maddox, and the other stipulations for training and the like continue to stand.

"The Commission's written decision stands," read a statement from the MGC. "The deadline for fine payment and notice of appeal is May 31. The MGC continues to focus its efforts on the significant amount of regulatory preparations required before Encore's opening."

The MGC also provided a list of things that would be

City Council, municipal employees at odds on health insurance changes

By Adam Swift

There will be no do-over on a City Council vote that gives City Manager Thomas Ambrosino the ability to negotiate changes to the city's group health insurance plan.

In a controversial vote earlier this month, the Council approved the request by Ambrosino, a move that the City Manager said would give him greater negotiating leverage with the city's Public Employee Committee (PEC). The City's current group health plan is governed by a three-year agreement with the PEC that expires on June 30 of this year.

That vote was taken before the dozens of current and former municipal employees had the opportunity to address the issue at the early May meeting.

However, Monday night, the public employees were back in force, holding signs and passing out pamphlets before the meeting and crowding into Council Chambers as the meeting began.

Several union representatives took to the microphone during the public speaking portion of the City Council meeting, expressing their displeasure at the vote and what they saw as the council's cutting off their opportunity to debate the issue.

"Two weeks ago, I was appalled by the way this meeting was run," said Don Dabenigno, president of the Chelsea Teachers' Union. "Not letting a number of residents and city employees talk about such an important issue was wrong, in my opinion."

In addition to stifling debate, a number of those who spoke noted that the potential for increase in health insurance premiums and costs puts an unfair burden City workers, and also noted that the City's health care trust fund is robust.

"When we have that much money in the bank, it seems strange to ask employees to pay more for health insurance," said Kathryn Anderson, a Chelsea teacher.

Several speakers also stated that Chelsea public employees are not paid as well those in surrounding communities, and that asking them to pay increased health insurance costs could stifle the City's ability to hire and retain staff in the schools and police and fire departments.

Monday night, the public about the proposal made by Vidot and Bishop.

Councillor-At-Large Roy Avellaneda asked what would happen with condominiums, where there are owners as opposed to tenants. He also questioned what would happen if developers did provide required parking.

“If they meet the conditions and there are 15 spots for 10 units, would we still allow the parking sticker?” he asked.

Avellaneda said he is supportive of working out more details for a parking plan, and also noted that many of the biggest parking issues come not from the larger developments, but from smaller conversions where parking relief is granted for buildings increasing from one to two or two to three families.

District 3 Councillor Joe Perlatonda said there needs to be a closer look at the overall parking program for the city.

He said the current program, which limits resident sticker parking to 12 a.m. to 5 a.m. is unfair to residents.

“Unless we change the parking program to 24/7, these people are still going to be parking in our streets, and I’m sick of it,” said Perlatonda.

Overnight lane closures on Woods Memorial Bridge

The Massachusetts Department of Transportation has announced overnight upcoming double lane closures on Route 16 east and westbound between Santilli Circle in Everett and Wellington Circle in Medford.

These impacts were put in place starting each evening between the hours of 9 p.m., and 5 a.m., from Sunday May 19, through Thursday, May 23, as well as from Tuesday, May 28, through Thursday, May 30.

A minimum of one lane of traffic will remain open in each direction at all times during these operations. These impacts are necessary to allow crews and contractors to safely and effectively install the bridge joint system on the Woods Memorial Bridge.

Appropriate signage and messaging will be in place to guide drivers through the work area. Those traveling through the area should expect delays, reduce speed and use caution. The schedule for this work is weather dependent and subject to change without notice.

employees’ immediate hopes for reconsideration by the City Council hinged on an order introduced by Councillor-At-Large Roy Avellaneda. The order would have temporarily allowed the Council to file for reconsideration of a vote within the last 60 days, rather than the 24 hour time period allowed under Council rules.

“I think a huge mistake was made when the public was not allowed to voice their opinion,” said Avellaneda.

Avellaneda and Yamir Rodriguez cast the two dissenting votes on the health insurance negotiation order, while Calvin Brown was out of the state due to a prior commitment and was not at the earlier meeting.

Avellaneda noted that councilors are allowed to speak several times on issues, and that other City boards are required to take public input on issues.

“I am not asking for any change in the vote, that is not the point,” he said. “This allows our public employees to present information, even if the end result is the same. I don’t want the legacy of the City Council to be that we didn’t listen to our residents.”

council vote does not mean an immediate change in health coverage, rather it gives the City Manager a tool to negotiate with the unions.

Avellaneda’s proposal to allow for temporary filing for reconsideration failed by a 7-4 vote, with Brown, Rodriguez, and District 2 Councillor Luis Tejada siding with Avellaneda.

During the meeting, Brown spoke against amending the council rules, but after the meeting, Brown said he ultimately sided with Avellaneda’s order because he believed the city’s hard-working employees deserved the opportunity to be heard.

Union members’ hopes may now rest on legal action.

A May 15 email to Ambrosino on behalf of the PEC from Patrick Bryant of the law firm Pyle Rome states that the PEC will pursue all avenues of legal relief if plan to implement health insurance plan design changes is not rescinded.

“While the City Council adopted the laws, having been led by you to believe that you would still bargain in good faith with the PEC before being implemented, you almost immediately have used this power to retaliate against the PEC, and the working men and women of this City that they represent,” Bryant stated in the email to Ambrosino.

But District 1 Councillor Robert Bishop said there was ample opportunity at the previous meeting after the vote for someone to suspend the rules to reconsider the vote or call for public speaking.

“No one said a word about public speaking, and I did not feel like it was my position to say that, since I was not on that side,” said Bishop.

Bishop also pointed out that there was an opportunity for union members to comment on the proposal at a public committee conference that was held two weeks before the council vote.

District 5 Councillor Judith Garcia said she took responsibility for not allowing the public speaking during the meeting, but also noted that she did her homework on the vote, and that there was the chance for public input at the earlier conference meeting.

Garcia also said that the

required under law in order to sell such a property under state law – all of which add up to a lengthy process that could include the purchaser re-applying for the gaming license. At a minimum, written notice has to be given and a number of hearings and meetings must take place that look like they could take as long as six months. Likewise, one operator cannot own more than one license in the state.

Just how much of the former sale talk is inside baseball that has a purpose few will ever know, and how much of it was a real possibility, is hard to gauge at this point.

Few, it seems, know anything about what Wynn Resorts really plans to do.

MGC approves extended 4 a.m. liquor license for Encore

The Massachusetts Gaming Commission (MGC) approved an extended 4 a.m. liquor license for Encore Boston Harbor by a vote of 4-1 on Wednesday, May 22.

The MGC had discussed the matter at its May 6 meeting in-depth, as well as the other numerous regular 2 a.m. closing licenses that the casino requested.

A comment period was initiated with Mayor Martin Walsh and Councilor Lydia Edwards voicing displeasure with the idea of granting the extension, which is only for those involved in active gaming. The last call is 3:30 a.m. They can re-open at 8 a.m.

Rollins speaks at Chamber of Commerce Luncheon

Suffolk County District Attorney announces community meeting in Chelsea on June 19

By Cary Shuman

Rachael Rollins, the dynamic district attorney who became the first female elected to the esteemed Suffolk County position last November, was the guest speaker at the Chamber of Commerce Luncheon Wednesday at the Holiday Inn/Boston Logan Airport Chelsea.

Rollins proved to be as dynamic a speaker as she is a public official.

“The people that are most impacted negatively by the criminal justice system – it has nothing to do with race and almost everything to do with poverty,” Rollins told the luncheon audience. “If you can’t afford somebody who can navigate fluently through the criminal justice system – you are at a significant disadvantage.”

“I don’t care what hue your skin is – if you have no money, the system does not work well for you, period, end of story,” said Rollins.

In well-received remarks, Rollins spoke about the DA’s mission as the chief law enforcement office of Suffolk County. She addressed serious issues such as the opioid crisis. She talked about the marijuana industry and law enforcement’s efforts in the field since recreational marijuana became legal in the state.

Chamber President Joseph Mahoney noted Rollins’ achievements as a Division 1 college athlete at UMass/Amherst. While at UMass, she challenged school leaders to increase the number of athletic scholarships given to female students.

Rollins also used the forum to make a major announcement: she will hold a community meeting on June 19 at 6 p.m. at the Chelsea Senior Center.

It is the second such quarterly meeting in the county following the inaugural session in Roxbury. It will be in the style of a state of the union/state of the city, followed by a question-and-answer session.

Councillor-at-Large Leo Robinson and Chelsea Police Community Engagement Specialist Dan Cortez praised Rollins’ initiative to host a community meeting in the city.

“A community meeting on a regular basis is a great idea,” said Robinson, an early supporter of Rollins in her campaign for office. “It follows through on her pledge to be accessible and accountable to our residents. I expect to see a tremendous turnout of people welcoming her to Chelsea on June 19 and learning about the important role the DA’s Office has in our lives.”

Chelsea Police Chief Brian Kyes was a guest at the luncheon while Roca Assistant Director Jason Owens, who provided an overview of Roca’s efforts during brief remarks, led a delegation from the agency.

Rollins called on Kyes to elaborate on the challenges facing police officers in regard to the new marijuana laws.

“We have individuals in the state, police officers in the state who are known as drug recognition experts (DREs),” said Kyes. “There are only about 200 DREs out of 17,000 police officers, including the State Police. At the end of the day, when an officer sees somebody and they’re unsteady on their feet, bloodshot eyes – they could potentially get probable cause to make an arrest, but then without that DRE to do an added evaluation, when it goes to court, these individuals aren’t getting convicted.”

“Right now, some judges will allow the testimony of a DRE and some will not,” concluded Kyes.

Rollins’ remarks were videotaped by Chelsea Community Cable Television. Executive Director Robert Bradley said the luncheon will begin airing on the cable television station.

Certified Public Accountant Susan Gallant, Welsh and Sons Funeral Home Director Peter Zaksheski, and Attorney David Mindlin.

Dakeya Christmas, director of sales for Residence Inn, and Hailey Guzman, director of sales for Holiday Inn, Chelsea, welcome Chamber of Commerce Joseph Mahoney to the first-ever Chamber luncheon held at the new hotel on the Chelsea-Revere line.

City Manager Tom Ambrosino, Suffolk County DA Rachael Rollins, State Rep. Dan Ryan, and Chelsea Police Community Engagement Specialist Daniel Cortez.

MEMORIAL DAY IS A DAY TO REFLECT UPON THOSE WHO GAVE THE LAST FULL MEASURE

The Memorial Day weekend is upon us, a three-day weekend that for most Americans marks the start of the summer season. Many will celebrate appropriately with barbecues and outdoor activities with family and friends.

However, amidst our festivities, we should not forget that Memorial Day is America's most solemn national holiday, marking our nation's tribute to those who made the Supreme Sacrifice for our country.

Memorial Day initially was observed on May 30 and was known as Decoration Day, in an era before the turn of the 20th century, when the Northern states paid tribute to the Union soldiers -- who gave their lives to preserve America as we know it -- by decorating their graves that were a part of the landscape of every Northern community whose sons died to preserve the Union and free the slaves.

That tradition continues to this day, with the graves of those who gave their lives for their country being decorated with American flags and flowers around the country, whether by veterans organizations or family members.

The new century soon brought with it wars, seemingly every generation, that would give new meaning to the words Supreme Sacrifice. Starting with the Spanish-American War in 1898, American blood was shed on foreign soil in WWI, WWII, Korea, Vietnam, the Gulf War, and then Iraq and Afghanistan, not to mention in other far-off places around the world that are known only to our government.

Although history has been less than kind in judging the wisdom of our policy-makers who involved us in many of these conflicts, what is beyond dispute is that in every war to which we have sent our young men and women, they have performed with courage and patriotism in the belief that they were serving the best interests of our nation.

For those of us who have been spared the horrors of war, it is difficult, if not impossible, to appreciate the sacrifices that have been made on our behalf by those who served -- and died -- while wearing the uniform.

It is these brave Americans, who gave "the last full measure," whom we honor on Memorial Day. Without their heroic efforts, we would not be writing this editorial -- nor would you be reading it.

So as we enjoy the long holiday weekend with friends and family, let each of us resolve to take a moment -- if not longer -- to thank those who gave their lives in order that we might be able to enjoy the freedoms that make America the greatest nation on earth.

Abraham Lincoln's words in his Gettysburg address ring as true today as they in 1864:

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent, a new nation, conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But, in a larger sense, we can not dedicate -- we can not consecrate -- we can not hallow -- this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us -- that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion -- that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain -- that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom -- and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

LETTERS to the Editor

I BELIEVE THIS IS AN AMAZING OPPORTUNITY

Dear Editor:

Hello and thank you for giving me the opportunity to tell you how I feel about the situation with the police fire and teachers and if you choose to maybe put it in print. So here we go!

First off, I have to apologize for the missed opportunity to have the police and fire as well as school representatives, family and friends speak, that was a sad scenario, lesson learned that will never be repeated again. It is the right of the people to be heard and vent their frustrations, my deepest apologies!

I am a little confused by something, I had a meeting with the City manager and the figures he spoke to me about where nothing compared to what I heard on the council floor this evening. Look, all my bills have gone up, heck my life insurance went from $270 to $320, out of nowhere, So they cant expect things not to change for them even though they are changing for everyone else. Cost of living increases are a part of life.

I applaud our City Manager Tom Ambrosino for what he is trying to do with the insurance portion of the contract with the police fire and teachers union. The fact is that when you are in charge and are a person who cares, sometimes you have to make some unpopular decisions for the greater good.

As most of you know I am a Realtor and finance guy and I can tell you that the signs are all there, we know it, we see it coming but we choose not to make any changes until its right on top of us and then we realize it's here and we are in dire straits, we want to blame everyone and everything else, I speak it because I live it as well, I know its hard to save for the future and that is exactly what our city manager wants to do, he wants to improve our savings for the future. So that when the market does turn for the worse, the impact on those accounts will be more manageable and the blow will be less aggressive. I heard someone tonight say " its not like when things get bad we wont sit down to negotiate" well of course you have to sit down to renegotiate but wouldn't it just be nicer to negotiate with a healthy account instead of an ailing one.

People are saying, yeah but there is a $7million dollar surplus and to them I say, when you have that surplus and then you divide that by hundreds and hundreds of active police, fire and teachers and then on top of that you add the retirees who are very much entitled to their benefits as well as the active, you realize that that amount is not very much when you take into consideration the fact that it takes approximately 7 - 10 years to recover from a market downturn and during that downturn you have foreclosures so no real estate taxes are being paid, excise taxes also take hits the overall revenue coming to cities and towns including aid from state and federal is reduced significantly.

The reality of life is that if you start saving for a market collapse 2 years before the market downturn, you will survive approximately 6 months to a year of a long cycle. You start saving now with a strong surplus and when the market downturn happens, you are able to survive the initial drought while you strategize on survival skills from a strong position.

As I sat in the council meeting and I heard all of these stories of $500 to $1000 deductibles, my stomach turned, i could not afford that, so i completely sympathize with people and i too would be thinking as they are. I urge all of the people who are being affected by this to ask questions about what the options are because the options people spoke of where semi alien to me and what i heard and read where much much more favorable terms.

I believe this is an Amazing opportunity to make history for the Unions and City Manager and be the first organizational group to start and do what has never really been done in a city and that would be consciously save aggressively in these more affluent times and solidify their legacy with the city as the reps who represented for the future and saved a lot of people a lot of heartache and pain from having a lack of insurance, in the upcoming market crash, because the city simply didn't have the funds!

In conclusion, I would like to thank THE MOST AMAZING GROUP OF DEDICATED FIRST RESPONDERS AND TEACHERS! The work you do is invaluable and none of us can ever repay you for having our backs the way you do, whether its FIRE, POLICE OR TEACHERS, We are LUCKY TO HAVE YOU!

These negotiations are just that negotiations, I would much rather the city be paying you LEBRON MONEY but tis not our reality. Thank you from the bottom of my heart and may god guide your every step!

MAY IS MENTAL HEALTH AWARENESS MONTH

Dear Editor:

In America today, approximately 45-47 million, or 1 out of 5 Americans, is suffering with a mental health issue; and approximately 1 in 25 adults is currently experiencing a serious mental illness that substantially interferes with one or more major life activities. Sadly, the rate of suicide is at a 30-year high.

While more individuals are accessing care, an astounding 9 million are struggling with unmet needs. These are our friends, colleagues, neighbors and perhaps our own family members. As CEO of the Arbour Hospital, my staff and I have the privilege of serving many members of our community who are experiencing some of the most challenging times of their lives -- mental illnesses that are often invisible to the casual observer in ways that physical illnesses are not.

May is Mental Health Awareness month, providing an important opportunity for reflection and collective action to address barriers, including the ongoing stigma and stereotypes preventing many individuals from getting the care they need.

A recent poll of 1,000 Americans conducted by Research Now provides some noteworthy insights regarding perception and barriers. High percentages of respondents view mental health as equal in importance to physical health with illnesses like depression and anxiety cited among the top concerns, along with cancer and heart disease. The same poll identified barriers to care and different perspectives regarding value for physical and mental health where historically the latter wasn't taken as seriously.

The good news is that there is much hope -- and today, positive outcomes are not only possible, they are experienced every day. Like chronic physical illness, mental illness can be diagnosed and effectively managed. Individuals who were once in despair can regain their mental health and go on to live their best lives. This is highly rewarding and one reason I chose to work in this field.

What can we do within our communities to recognize the signs of mental health issues and assist those in need of care and treatment?

- Listen and show understanding: If you suspect a loved one is struggling, offer to listen and encourage them to seek professional help.
- Share the Lifeline number (800-273-TALK) -- a 24/7, free and confidential support line. Military veterans may press '1' for dedicated support. Suicide affects all demographics: different ages, races, ethnicities, sexual orientation and occupations.
- In case of acute emergency, dial 911 or go to the nearest emergency room. Suicide is often preventable when people at risk receive the support that they need.

• Our schools should encourage students to pursue careers in mental health fields, whether through nursing, medical or vocational programs. This is a growing field; we need the next generation of talented professionals. Arbour educational partners include Northeastern University, Roxbury Community College and Tufts School of medicine.

• Each of us can play a positive role to improve the lives of the millions of Americans suffering from mental health challenges, not just during this month, but every month in every community across the country.

OBITUARIES

Dr. Elsa Wasserman
Former Chelsea High School Principal

Dr. Elsa R. (Robinson) Wasserman passed away on May 14 after suffering a stroke at home in Goleta, California.

Dr. Wasserman served the Cambridge Public Schools in many capacities.

She headed the staff development efforts overseeing the introduction of new methods into the schools; she was Acting Principal of Cambridge Rindge and Latin School and was instrumental in the development of two alternative high schools in Cambridge, the Pilot School and the Cluster School. Because of her acumen as an educator and as a principled person, she was consulted by superintendents and educators throughout her years in Cambridge.

In 1989, Boston University hired Dr. Wasserman as Principal of Chelsea High School. This was the most daunting and high profile task of her career, assiduously tracked by the Boston press. BU had just taken over the Chelsea Public Schools and soon after the town went into receivership with the State. WGBH in Boston documented Dr. Wasserman's endeavors in, Hard Times at Chelsea High. During her tenure, graduation rates and other important metrics improved.

Dr. Wasserman then moved into the position of Assistant Superintendent in Maynard. She introduced Standards Based Learning, a move that would be followed by all states.

After leaving Maynard, she worked as an education consultant for the National Center on Education and the Economy in Washington, D.C., developing a program for America's Choice that would greatly alter the collaborative framework of educators within a school.

Dr. Wasserman's final act as a professional was working as a Social Worker on Cape Cod where she specialized in the methodologies of Dr. Marsha Linehan's Dialectical Behavioral Therapy.

Dr. Wasserman received her MEd and her EdD from Boston University. Her doctorate thesis focused on the collaborative work she completed with Dr. Lawrence Kohlberg of Harvard University. A rich professional and personal relationship, their efforts and work together produced the implementation of several cutting edge approaches to public education that resulted in democratic participation for all stakeholders in the school environment.

Elsa R Wasserman was born in Boston on May 6, 1937 to Milton and Charlotte Robinson of Brookline. Her father was a florist at the Boston Flower Market, having taken over the business from his father. Her mother, Charlotte, was a housewife. Dr. Wasserman three siblings; two (Ellen Robinson and Besie Ezekiel) have preceded her in death. Her brother, Mark Robinson, lives in Vermont. Dr. Wasserman married Oscar Wasserman and together had three children: Aaron (wife, Ana, and children, Lukas and Zachary) Wasserman of Ft. Worth, Texas, Shoshanna Richek (children, Eric and Dael Szuch) of Charleston, South Carolina and Michael (wife, Liat, and children, Sarina and Leora) Wasserman of Santa Barbara, California.

Elsa and Oscar remained friends and family following their divorce. She loved her grandchildren, taking them on extraordinary trips to Alaska and the Galapagos Islands which enriched the relationship among the cousins who lived so far apart.

Dr. Wasserman spent most of the last 15 years in Ajijic, Mexico where she developed deep bonds with many locals and expats alike. In particular, she created a second family with the Garcia-Garays: Angie, Alex, Alejandra and Ivan. Recently, a granddaughter was born to the Garcia family and was named Elsa in honor of their adopted grandmother.

Close family and friends gathered in Santa Barbara to celebrate their love for Elsa.

BRUINS Beat by Bob Morello

Bruins look to bring the Cup home

The vivid memory of Bobby Orr flying through the air on Mother’s Day in 1970, scoring the goal that brought the Bruins the Stanley Cup, was 49 years ago. The goal and that photo are considered to be one of the top moments in NHL history. The irony of those memories is that all this happened against the St. Louis Blues. The same organization the Bruins will face on Monday night, to begin the 2019 Stanley Cup Finals.

The difference this year is the 2019 Blues team is enjoying a magical season that featured a stunning turnaround. In January, during regular season play they were mired in last place. Move number one by Blues management was to hire Craig Berube – who played on five NHL teams, as coach in November, having fired Mike Yeo. Move number two in January, and probably the most important one, was replacing goaltender Jake Allen with the 25-year-old Jordan Binnington who previously had only one NHL game (with St. Louis) on his resume. Boston fans may be familiar with Binnington, who played 28 games in net while on loan to the Providence Bruins – posting an impressive 17-9 record in 28 games, with a 2.05 goals-against-average, and a .926 save percentage. A third round draft pick (#88) by St. Louis in 2011. With Berube behind the bench, the team posted a record of 38-19-6, and since Binnington stepped into the job, he put up numbers of 24-5-1, and he continued to be strong enough to get the Blues to the Stanley Cup Finals. His NHL playoff resume to date is 12-7, and interestingly enough, the Blue were 0-12 in previous Stanley Cup appearances.

For the Bruins, they were strong enough and resilient enough in 2011, with Tim Thomas in goal to bring the Cup to Boston in a seven-game series. The pain of 2013 still hurts, as the Bruins lost the Cup in the final minutes of Game 6 that year, allowing two goals, to give the Cup to the Chicago Blackhawks. This 2019 Bruins team is in good position to bring the Cup back to Boston. Tuukka Rask has had a solid regular season, and thus far in the playoffs, he’s been unbelievable in net for the locals. Despite all the pessimism regarding the Bs long layoff between Round Three and the Cup Finals, Tuukka, and the team, are expected to regain the confidence they showed in the previous three rounds, in time for the all-important Stanley Cup Final round.

In an attempt to ward off the 11-day layoff’s possible rust factor, the Bruins will play an intra-squad scrimmage tonight

(Thursday at 7:00pm) at TD Garden. The Bruins will split into two teams – Team White and Team Black (also using some select Providence Bruins players), and play two 25-minute periods of controlled scrimmage, with two referees on the ice to officiate play. This ticketed event is open to the public with tickets on sale for $20., and parking in the North Station Garage at $10. Not expected to be in the lineup are Kevan Miller and Chris Wagner, with the latter’s injury possibly being postseason-ending.

With the Blues finally knocking off the injury-plagued San Jose Sharks to win the Western Conference title, the Bruins can now study their opponent more closely, and make strong decisions on matchups, etc. Naturally, the first thought that comes to mind is Bruins forward David Backes, with his first opportunity to face his former team in the Cup Finals, having spent ten seasons with the Blues, five of them as captain. The Bruins will need to play a heavy game, while keeping an eye on Blues’ veteran Vladimir Tarasenko, a goal-scoring machine, along with Jaden Schwartz who is on a tear, having already put in a dozen goals in 18 playoff games, including two hat tricks. When you look at the St. Louis lineup there are few weak spots, their strong defense includes captain Alex Pietrangelo, Jay Boumeester, Colton Parayko and Joel Edmundson, and they are good-sized blueliners. Forward Pat Maroon has performed well in the playoffs with seven points (3-4), his highlight being the double-overtime Game 7 winning goal against the Dallas Stars.

The entire schedule for the Stanley Cup Finals has the Bruins on home ice for both Game One Monday (May 27 at 8:00pm), and Game Two Wednesday (May 29 at 8:00pm). Following two travel days, both Game Three and Game Four shift to St. Louis Game Three on Saturday (June 1 at 8:00pm), and Game Four (Monday June 3 at 8:00pm). If necessary, Game Five will be played back on TD Garden ice following another two-day travel schedule on Thursday (June 6 at 8:00pm), with Game Six (if necessary) in St. Louis on Sunday (June 9 at 8:00pm), and Game Seven (if necessary) on Wednesday (June 12 at 8:00pm). Thoughts from here, Bruins should win in six?

Finally, kudos once again to Bruins General Manager Don Sweeney, in having been named as a finalist for the ‘2019 General Manager of the Year Award.’

BANNER DAY FOR SIMON, CHANG AT CAC MEET

Chelsea High track stars
Stephanie Simon and Ana Chang turned in outstanding performances at Saturday's Commonwealth Athletic Conference Meet. Both Lady Red Devils earned the meet's top honors, with Stephanie being named the Most Valuable Performer in field events and Ana receiving the MVP in the track events.

Simon won four events,
the high jump with a leap of 5'-2", the 100 high hurdles in 16.49, the long jump with a distance of 18'-2.5" (which was almost a foot longer than her nearest competitor and set a new CAC Meet record), and the 200 dash in a clocking of 25.51, which set both a new CHS school record (breaking her sister Martine's mark of 26.01) and a new meet record (which Stephanie herself had established last year).

Chang set both meet and CHS records in the 400 hurdles with her winning time of 107.90, which is the sixth-fastest time in the state in Division 1 this season.
Ana also sprinted to victory in the 100 dash in 12.73, which is the 11th fastest time in the state this season.

Both girls will be competing in this weekend's Division 1 State Meet where they will be favored to win medals.

A number of their teammates also turned in fine performances in leading the Chelsea girls to a third-place finish in the team standings with 83 points, just behind second-place Shawsheen Tech

CHS Roundup

with 87 points. Essex Tech won the girls title with 122 points.

Jess Martinez finished second in the discus with a toss of 82'-11.5"; Yaris Deras brought home a third place medal in the 1600 meter race with a time of 5:58.69; Jocelyn Poste grabbed third place in the 400 hurdles in 1:14.76 and fifth spot in the 800 in 2:44.17; Pricilla Melgar grabbed sixth place in the 3200 meter run in 15:03.35; and Marcella Castillo took seventh place in the 800 in 2:55.32.

The Lady Red Devil 4 x
400 relay quartet of Deras, Castillo, Saia Carreto, and Dandi Mejia Pazil finished in seventh place in a time of 5:09.06.

TURNER WINS CAC CHAMPIONSHIP

Chelsea High star trackman Justin Turner, who was the premier two-mile runner in the Commonwealth Athletic Conference this season, laid claim to the undisputed 2019 title in that event with a victory in the 3200 meter run this past Saturday in the CAC Meet.

Justin laid waste to the competition in the 3200 with his clocking of 10:07, which was a lengthy 25 seconds faster than his closest competitor.
Although Justin was the only Red Devil to bring home a CAC title, there were a number of fine performances turned in by his teammates.

Jazmany Reyes took second place in the 1600 meter run with a time of 4:52.82, which was just 1.53 seconds behind the winner. Teammate

Julio Valladares finished a close fourth in the 1600 with his clocking of 4:54.59.

Chelsea won two medals in the shot put. Anthony Del-Rosario finished fifth with a toss of 37'-6.5" and Rigo Flores-Noriega grabbed sixth place with his throw of 36'-8".

The three Chelsea relay teams also performed well.
The 4 x 400 foursome of Turner, Jose Morales, Valladares, and Reyes finished with third-place medals for their clocking of 3:46.10.

In the 4 x 800 relay, the team of Limilson Tavares, Ian Padilla, Ruben Padilla, and Oscar Amaya grabbed fourth place in 9:55.64.

In the 4 x 100, the quartet of Kennedy Lopez, Nasir Adams. Jose Gutierrez, and Josh Suggs sprinted to a seventh place finish in 49.11.

Coach Cesar Hernandez and his crew will compete in the Division 1 State Meet this Saturday.

QUINTERO PLAYS WELL FOR CHS BASEBALL

"Rain, rain go away..."
was the theme of the week for the Chelsea High baseball team, which was able to play only one game because of the foul weather, that coming last Wednesday against Mystic Valley.

Santiago Quintero scored the lone run of the game for the Red Devils thanks to an RBI base hit by Andrew Falcon.

Quintero also performed
well on the pitching mound, striking out four enemy batters in his two innings of work.
