Chelsea Seniors push for outdoor graduation this year

VOLUME 117, NO. 36

By Seth Daniel

The great outdoors is a great place for graduation, and a large group of Chelsea seniors are pushing to get their big day under the blue skies once again.

Manuel Teshe and Senior Class President Jocelyn Poste have been campaigning with a large group of their classmates to get their graduation ceremony outside. Graduation has been in the gym for several years, but prior to that it was always outside. Now, the students are looking to overcome several obstacles to get the graduation on the new turf Stadium.

"We understand we have to protect the field for future classes, but we really want to have this ceremony outside," he said, noting that they have started a GoFundMe page to raise money for the effort. "This is a beautiful new field and we want to be able to use it. We won't stop until we get the Stadium."

Supt. Mary Bourque reported that the School Committee has approved the move out-

The Chelsea 500 Committee, consisting of local organizations such as the Chelsea Collaborative, TND, the Chelsea Housing Authority, the Chelsea Recreation and Cultural Affairs Division, and Bunker Hill Community College, will hold a Career Fair on Dec. 14 at Chelsea City Hall.

The newly formed committee is working collectively to create a jobs pathway for Chelsea residents with Encore Boston Harbor, the $2.6 billion casino and resort that will open in June, 2019, in Everett.

The committee is working on holding jobs pipeline information sessions, career readiness workshops, case management, interview skills workshops, ESL, computer classes and much more. All members of the community interested in working at Encore Boston Harbor are encouraged to participate in the various workshops and classes.

Focusing on Now

New mural looks at 'Chelsea Right Now'

By Seth Daniel

When Chelsea art teacher Demetrius Fuller focuses on the community he has taught in since 1999, he has come to focus on the here and now.

And in a new mural he is painting on Cherry Street off of Everett Avenue, he has proclaimed everyone to see 'Chelsea Right Now.'

While many focus on what Chelsea was, or lament about what it might become, he said very few, including himself, stop to enjoy what it is right now – which is pretty wonderful.

"It's a mural for Chelsea," he said. "That's why we call it 'Chelsea Right Now.' Everyone is always talking about Chelsea in the future or what Chelsea used to be, or what it might not be tomorrow, but we just don't stop to see there is a tremendous beauty in Chelsea present. This mural is about right now and captures what Chelsea is right now."

The mural is funded by a Cultural Council grant and Fuller said he has not really ever done a mural. As a director of the art department in the Chelsea Schools, he has done painting in the schools and also for backgrounds at the Apollinaire Theatre, but never on a brick building. Known mostly for his teaching and his puppet show theatre productions, he said he needed help.

That's why he brought his friend, Chris Miranda, in from Pittsburgh. The two of them have been working on the mural since Oct. 22, and it's garnered a lot of attention.

Miranda said so many people comment on it that he has to sometimes ignore them so he can get his work done.

"I love the comments," he said. "I've been enjoying getting to know this really wonderful City of Chelsea. It has so much character. So many people come up to me when I'm painting. All of them are excited, and sometimes there are so many that I have to just get back to work and let them watch me."

Fuller said he often has students or parents stop to encourage him, which he enjoys.

"I do really like seeing the kids while I'm painting and for them to see me outside of school," he said. "That's good because many of them think the teacher lives at the school. I'm attempting to make something beautiful for the City of Chelsea and I think people appreciate that."

The mural is still in the detail stages, but one can clearly see the figure of a woman coming out into the sunlight - something that Fuller said he has observed in the Cherry Street alley many times. He said the sun actually comes

Election Results

Gov. Charlie Baker re-elected statewide, but Chelsea goes for Gonzalez

By Seth Daniel

While Gov. Charlie Baker cruised to re-election state-wide with 67 percent of the vote, he barely made any traction in Chelsea this time around.

Though former City Manager Jay Ash is a key member of his cabinet once again, the Republican Baker didn't seem to get much support in Chelsea over Democratic candidate Jay Gonzalez.

In Chelsea, 3,350 people voted for Gonzalez, while 3,115 voted for Baker – a sharp contrast to the statewide results.

During his victory party at the Hynes Convention Center in the Back Bay, he said his administration will continue to build bi-partisan relationships to tackle the tough issues.

"The people of Massachusetts elected us four years ago to bring fiscal discipline, a reform minded approach to governing, and a commitment to bipartisanship to state government," he said. "We have done just that. Every single day. And today, the voters have spoken. They like what we are doing and they appreciate the way we work. So here's the good news. That collaborative, purposeful and humble approach to governing is exactly what you are going to get from us and from our team for the next four years. Non-stop. Let's rock."

•While governor made the headlines, the most active voting took place on the ballot questions, particularly Question 1 that focused on mandated nurse staffing ratios. The question was defeated easily statewide, and in Chelsea it was also defeated with 67 percent of the vote.

Question 2 won with 70 percent of the vote, and Question 3 to uphold the transgender rights bill passed locally with 68 percent of the vote.

•For District Attorney, Rachael Rollins won big citywide and in Chelsea over Mike Maloney. Rollins, who has held great popularity in Chelsea, had been a controversial candidate in submit-

Bishop proposes City Council pay cut

By Adam Swift

If District 1 City Councillor Robert Bishop gets his way, he'll be taking $6,000 per year out of his own pockets, and those of his fellow city councillors.

Monday night, Bishop introduced an ordinance asking that the Council salary be cut from $14,000 to $8,000 per year beginning in 2020. The councillor said he was unhappy when the salary increased from $8,000 to $14,000 several years ago, and wants to see it cut back.

The ordinance was moved to a second reading at a future council meeting before there was any discussion on the proposal, but Council President Damali Vidot said there will be an opportunity for debate and discussion during the second reading.

The council voted for the pay raise to $14,000 in 2013 and it went into effect on Jan. 1, 2014.

CHS boys soccer falls in state tourney

The Chelsea High boys soccer team dropped a heartbreaking 2-1 decision to Acton-Boxboro in a first round contest of the Division 1 North Sectional of the MIAA state soccer tournament last Friday evening on the turf at Highland Park.

The Red Devils grabbed a 1-0 lead at the 30 minute mark of the opening half when Delmer Romero found the back of the A-B net with a beautiful strike from the top of the box.

Delmer, Chelsea's leading scorer this season, initially took possession of the ball in the right corner of the box and then made a few moves toward the center to create some space from the A-B defenders. When he obtained a small window of opportunity, Romero let go a powerful drive high to the opposite corner to beat the A-B keeper.

However, that would prove to be the apogee of coach Mick Milutinovic and his Red Devils' hopes for advancing to the next round of the tournament.

Five minutes after Romero's goal, a ref whistled Chelsea for a controversial handball in the box and awarded a penalty kick to A-B. The alleged hand-ball call was not evident to anyone else on or in the field -- and the ref who made the call was 60 yards aways from the action.

Acton-Boxboro converted the PK, bringing the contest back to level at the half.

The contest remained deadlocked for the next 55 minutes -- 40 minutes of the second half, 10 minutes of the first overtime, and five minutes of the second OT -- until A-B reached the back of the by almost a minute. Os-Chelsea net for the victory with five minutes left in the second overtime period.

"This was a great tourney game," said CHS assistant coach Evan Protasowicki. "Our defense was solid and our keeper, Roberto Portillo, played the best game of his career with some outstanding

"We had a great crowd and the team fought hard the whole way," added Protasowicki, who noted that the Red Devils had enjoyed a superb season with a 13-0-3 record entering the tournament. "It's too bad that the outcome of the game hinged on that hand-ball call."

CHS runners do well at Coaches Meet

Last Saturday a small contingent of the Chelsea High boys and girls cross country teams traveled to Wrentham to participate in the Frank Mooney State Coaches Invitational.

Senior Justin Turner raced to a personal best of 17:05 on the 3.1 mile course to finish seventh out of 189 runners.

"Every week Justin gets better," said CHS head coach Don Fay. "He had a great summer of training and it is translating into a remarkable season. He hasn't missed a day of practice and he is a great leader.'

Senior Julio Valladares ran 17:51 to improve by over a minute and was 30th overall out of 189.

"Earlier this season Julio had a virus he couldn't shake," said Fay. "The last three weeks he has finally been running to his potential."

Jazmany Reyes ran 18:29 and also had a personal best

With the Chelsea Square fountain in the background and the Bellingham Square clock - along with several other things - the mural features the women in a "here and now" moment stepping into the sun. As a reference point for the woman, Councilor Judith Garcia posed for the artists to get a sense of how things should look at the "right moment."

That idea of the sun shining on Chelsea at a particular moment played into the Chelsea Right Now theme, Fuller said.

He said he hopes the mural, when finished, can serve as a reminder for everyone to not miss the great community that exists now for worries of the future or laments for the past.

"It's like the City sat down for me to paint its portrait," he

That "list" had gotten a lot of attention after the September primary victory, and she has spent most of the last month explaining the plan which would essentially divert resources from smaller, quality-of-life crimes to investigate larger crimes like homicide, rape and aggravate assaults.

In Chelsea, Rollins got 4,812 votes to Maloney's 1,169.

On Tuesday night, Rollins' said her election reflects widespread demand for change in a criminal justice system that for too long has not worked fairly for everyone. Rollins has promised to bring new solutions to the office that will break down wealth and racial disparities, keep communities safe and treat all people with dignity and respect.

"I am humbled by the trust the voters have placed in me to serve as Suffolk County's next District Attorney," said Rollins. "I am beyond grateful for the hard work of our volunteers and the support of our community over the last nine months since we launched this campaign. Voters sent a very clear signal today that our criminal justice system is not working for too many people and it's time for a change. We will start by creating an office that adequately reflects the communities it serves and that is engaged with every neighborhood within the county. Then together we'll make our criminal justice system better and work to strengthen relationships between communities and law enforcement.

•All three of Chelsea's state elected officials, State Rep. Dan Ryan, State Rep. RoseLee Vincent and Sen. Sal Di-Domenico were unopposed, but prevailed with a good vote Tuesday.

•Bishop also asked for a meeting to discuss traffic flow issues at Revere Beach Parkway and Washington Avenue, Revere Beach Parkway and Webster Avenue, and Spruce Street and Everett Avenue. The councillor noted that motorists are faced with an especially dangerous intersection at Revere Beach Parkway and Washington.

"It's a wonder that there are not more accidents than there already are," Bishop said.

•The District 1 Councillor is also requesting a subcommittee meeting to discuss issues with the city and the Chelsea Housing Authority's rodent baiting programs. Bishop said he has concerns that the programs are ineffective and dangerous for the workers implementing them.

•District 6 Councillor Giovanni Recupero introduced an order asking the public works director provide the Council with an accurate account of how the City sets water and sewer rates and how those rates could be stabilized.

In contrast to the past several meetings, when discussion over water and sewer rates brought a steady stream of residents to the microphone, it was a more subdued public speaking session at Monday's meeting.

Chelsea High School senior Manuel Teshe advocated for fundraising efforts that would allow the senior class to graduate outside at the school's football field. Teshe estimated the total cost of covering the field to keep it safe for a graduation ceremony would be about $30,000.

"We are passionate about this and want to graduate from the school in the best way possible," said Teshe.

Teshe's classmate, senior class president Jocelyn Poste, was also on hand at the meeting to promote the Red Devil Turkey Trot race on Saturday, Nov. 17 to benefit the school's track and cross country pro-

BE SURE TO THANK OUR VETERANS

Its was 100 years ago this Sunday, on Nov. 11, 1918, that World War I formally came to a conclusion on what is famously referred to as the 11th hour, of the 11th day, of the 11th month.

Americans observed the first anniversary of the end of the war the following year when the holiday we now know as Veteran's Day originated as Armistice Day in 1919.

The first world war was referred to at the time as "the war to end all wars." It was thought that never again would mankind engage in the sort of madness that resulted in the near-total destruction of Western Civilization and the loss of millions of lives for reasons that never have been entirely clear to anybody either before, during, or since.

Needless to say, history has shown us that such thinking was idealistically foolhardy. Just 21 years later, the world again became enmeshed in a global conflagration that made the first time around seem like a mere practice run for the mass annihilation that took place from 1939-45.

Even after that epic second world war, America has been involved in countless bloody conflicts in the 73 years since General Douglas MacArthur accepted the Japanese surrender on the Battleship Missouri. Today, we still have troops fighting -- and dying -- on frontlines around the world.

Peace at hand has been nothing but a meaningless slogan for most of the past century.

Armistice Day officially became known as Veteran's Day in 1954 so as to include those who served in WWII and the Korean War. All of our many veterans since then also have become part of the annual observance to express our nation's appreciation to the men and women who bravely have answered the call of duty to ensure that the freedoms we enjoy as Americans have been preserved against the many challenges we have overcome.

Although Veteran's Day, as with all of our other national holidays, unfortunately has become commercialized, we urge our readers to take a moment, even if just quietly by ourselves, to contemplate what we owe the veterans of all of our wars and to be grateful to them for allowing us to live freely in the greatest nation on earth.

If nothing else, Veterans Day should remind us that freedom isn't free and that every American owes a debt of immeasurable gratitude and thanks to those who have put their lives on the line to preserve our ideals and our way of life.

side, but getting on the turf field is something they are trying to work out with the company. There are some steps to take, she said, to preserve the warranty if graduation is held on the field in the first year after construction.

"We are very proud to have the School Committee vote to support the students request to have graduation outside," she said. "The location is still to be determined though. It is going to be outside, but we still are all working together on the Stadium piece.'

School Committeeman Julio Hernandez said he supports the seniors, and recalls that his class tried to also get graduation outside, but to no avail. He said he encouraged students to work with the School Committee and the City Council, which they have been doing.

"These students are really fighting to have their big day outside at the Stadium and I support them 100 percent," he said. "My graduation was inside and I didn't get to bring two of my siblings because I didn't have enough tickets. The graduation is one of the biggest days for the students and their families. My class wasn't successful in getting it outside, like many other classes. I would love to see it outside again, and I hope they are successful."

For the students, the primary reason to go outside is so that entire families can see the ceremony.

In recent years, as classes have swelled in numbers, many family members have to sit in the cafeteria to watch on closed circuit TV – or they aren't able to come in at all.

Even a lucrative black market has sprung up over the years where kids auction off extra graduation tickets for as much as $200. One student last year allegedly made fake tickets and sold them to families in need, who were out of luck on the big day, Teshe

"I always knew graduation was inside, but didn't think much about it," said Saira Carreto. "Last year as a junior I volunteered to help and it really hit me when I saw the mothers, aunts and siblings of graduates waiting to get in. People werebeing sent into the auditorium and there were no tickets. Many of these kids are the first to graduate in their families. A lot of them have come from other countries and it's a big point of pride for their family to come see them graduate. Not having the luxury to share that moment is not fair. We don't want that to happen to our class and we believe the Stadium is the solution."

Marcela Castillo said they don't want to settle, and they will push for the Stadium.

"Many people don't have the best view of Chelsea High students and we don't deserve that," she said. "Current and future students should get the best graduation possible. It's a really important day in our lives. We feel that adults in our school have settled for less and we don't feel it's right. We're going to push for the field." Bourque said they continue to work with the students and may have a solution in the coming weeks. That is all up to the warranty on the new field, but there is optimism in the situation, she said.

The fundraising page is on GoFundMe and is listed under Chelsea High School Graduation. Donations to help the cause can be made there.

Veteran's Day November 11, 2018

Remembering Those Who Served

Formerly called Armistice Day, November 11 commemorates the anniversary of peace between the Allied and Central Powers, signed in 1918 in France. The end of hostilities between these two powerful opposing forces marked the end of "the war to end all wars" or "the great war" as it was also called. Many observe silent memorial at the eleventh hour on this day. Although a result of WWI, this special day has become a time to honor all those who so unselfishly served in our nation's Armed Forces, those who risk so much to preserve the high ideas and future hopes of a Democratic America. To the men and women of the military, who give so much during war and peace, we say "Thank You" and pray for the day global cooperation reigns supreme.

Please Join Us in recognizing the service that our military men and women have made for our nation.

CHELSEA RED DEVILS IN ACTION AGAINST ACTON-BOXBOROUGH COLONIALS

Trick or treat came two days after Halloween for the Red Devils, and the result will haunt the Red Devils for a while. Second-seeded and unbeaten Chelsea (13-0-3 entering the post season) fell 2-1 in double overtime to the dogged Acton-Boxborough Colonials in a stunning upset Friday, Nov. 2, at Highland Park in Division 1 North MIAA playoff action.

Chelsea took a 1-0 lead only eight minutes into the game when Delmer Romero tallied, and there was little reason to expect that would be the Red Devil's lone score. But the Colonials, 7-7-4 and 15 of 16 seeded teams, played stingy defense throughout the remainder of the evening and consistently stalled Chelsea's potent offense.

Acton-Boxborough's Ben Alcaide tied the game with two minutes left in the first half, and the score stayed knotted at 1 through the entire second half and through the first 15-minute overtime. Chelsea dodged a bullet during the first overtime when an appar- T STOP: Alex Calderon makes ent Colonial's goal was nullified because a second ball had rolled into play.

The second overtime was just underway when Will Ossellman-Chai drilled a shot from about 20 yards out that found the left corner of the net, well outside any reach of Chelsea goalkeeper Roberto Portillo-Penn.

The loss spells an unexpected and somewhat disappointing end to an otherwise spectacular season for Chelsea.

The Red Devils compiled one of the school's best-ever records.

The Chelsea Public Library and Raising a Reader presented the 13th Annual Family Literacy Day on November 3 to encourage families to read books and engage in learning together. Free backpacks of books were given to children, who spent the afternoon writing about their favorite activities in school and at home, and listening to special guests, such as City Manager Tom Ambrosino, read books to them. Little ones created fall leaf masks and wreathes, completed Veterans Day word searches, and decorated caps with feathers and colorful dots. Families also learned about electricity, nutrition, and dental care.

Getting Out

HAIRSPRAY

By Sheila Barth

"You can't stop the beat!," they sing jubilantly. Nobody wants them to- not at Bill Hanney's North Shore Music Theatre (NSMT) upbeat, high-energized, 28-member production "Hairspray," appearing through Nov. 11.

At last Saturday's packed matinee, multigenerational theatergoers enthusiastically applauded every song and delivered a hearty standing ovation at the finale. "I had so much fun!," a woman gushed, while exiting the theater. "The show was so upbeat!"

She wasn't alone.

First off, there's something wonderfully youthful and bubbly about Brooke Shapiro's portrayal of chunky cutie, Tracy Turnblad of Baltimore, who's just gotta get on Corny Collins TV teen-age dance show. Tracy knows all the dance steps and can move to the groove. She has the super-high bouffant and super-hairsprayed hairdo, but she's the wrong shape. Besides, Tracy's a rabble rouser. She wants every day to be Negro Day on Collins' show, not just one day that's designated for African-American teens. Tracy wants everybody to be able to dance together, a shocking thought in early 1960's segrety-somethings enjoyed the fast-paced, wonderfully choreographed ensemble songand-dance numbers (kudos, director-choreographer Jeff Whiting)

Theatergoers also enjoyed being near cast members lining the aisles, dancing in place, while waiting to run on or roll large props on stage. The actors smiled and winked, making eye contact with individuals.

Meanwhile, us older folk-perennial teens loved watching the then-revolutionary dance steps we did at sock hops, or simulated from Dick Clark's long-running, hit TV dance show, American Bandstand. Every doo-wah, whoo, hoo, hoo, and other harmonic sounds punctuated each number, making music to our nostalgic ears, We also recall the unspoken segregation here, in New England, when African-Americans danced only with African-Americans, and white teens with their own kind. Crossing the race line at a dance was quickly discouraged.

Besides Brooke Shapiro as Tracy, Christina Emily Jackson portraying Tracy's suppressed best friend, Penny Pingleton, is a hoot. Broadway veteran Blake Hammond portraying Tracy's super-sized, self-conscious mom, Edna Turnblad, also is outstanding, as is Altamiece Carolyn Cooper as Motormouth Maybelle, who brought down the house with her powerful solo, "I Know Where I've Been".

Two-act musical at Bill Hanney's North Shore Music Theatre through Nov. II. Book by Mark O'Donnell and Thomas Meehan, music, lyrics by Mark Shaiman, lyrics also by Scott Wittman. Stephen Scott Wormley, portraying Motormouth's teen-age son, Seaweed Stubbs, has all the right moves, too, but he's also a rebel, crossing the color line, by falling for, pursuing, and transforming innocent Penny.

It's always a pleasure seeing popular North Shore actress Cheryl McMahon, on stage. In "Hairspray," she plays three roles- Penny's oppressive mother, a female authoritarian, and prison matron.

There's so much to like in this production of "Hairspray".

Music Director Milton Grainger on keyboard and his marvelous musicians make all rollicking ensemble numbers showstoppers. Opening and oft-refrained song, "Good Morning, Baltimore," "The Madison," Welcome to the '60s," and others have theatergoers bopping in their seats.

You don't want to miss this immersive, fun, over-the-top ebullient show. Like Tracy and teen heart throb, Link (Zane Philips), you'll hear the bells and be dazzled, too.

NOT BE SILE

New Repertory Theatre's New England premiere of David Meyers' one-act docudrama. "We Will Not Be Silent," traces the historic resistance movement of a small group of German college- age students against Hitler and the Nazi re-

Overhead, large, odd-shaped cement-type structures hang, one piece resembling a huge ax. Perhaps it's coincidental, or set designer Ryan Bates constructed the set with double-entendre. Sophie School was executed by guillotine.

Dressed in a business suit, interrogator Kurt Grunwald (Tim Spears) is kindly, freeing her hands and apologizing for her treatment. Throughout the interrogation, Grunwald shifts from nice guy, who's caring and wants to save Sophie, to screaming at her and

He also manages to have Sophie's brother, Hans (Conor Proft), who was also arrested, talk to her.

Sophie shifts from concealing and denying involvement in any resistance movement. She proclaims she was a member of Hitler's Youth from age 12, and was a girls' squad leader. She adds her father and brother are also not involved in printing, writing, or disseminating anti-Hitler information, but adds her horror at the Nazi regime for killing babies, etc.

The anti-Hitler small group of students formed a movement, called The White Rose. They distributed leaflets denouncing Nazi militarism, depotism, and the mass murder of Jews. The leaflets implored fellow Germans to shake off their apathy, and complicity and form a peaceful resistance. They wanted to "renew the severely wounded German spirit," and declared, "We will not be silent. We are your guilty conscience. The White Rose will not leave you in peace."

Ratcheting up the drama level between scenes, award-winning sound designer Dewey Dellay ricochets loud, booming voices throughout the theater in surround-sound.

Facing reality, knowing she'll be executed, the 21-yearold weakens, saying she'll sign a paper to save her life. "I want to live. I don't want to die. I want to marry Franz, have a family, grow old....." she

But when she carefully reads it, knowing her action will be known worldwide through newspapers, radio, etc., Sophie decides she can't relinquish her principles to save her life.

Both Sophie and Hans were beheaded for their treasonous, anti-government acts, but their legacy lives on."We Will Not Be Silent" resonates loudly today, with anti-government youth groups springing up everywhere, defying unjust, totalitarian leadership.

FUN HOME

By Sheila Barth

Years ago, I knew a funny, fantastic lady named Barbara, whom everyone affectionately called "Boo". Her dad was a funeral director, and her family lived above the funeral parlor. At times, she and her siblings "filled in" the back row as "mourners". This beautiful, blonde, lively, fun-loving lady married a funeral director, and they lived in a suburban home with their children.

Her memories of growing up in the funeral home are happy.

I was reminded of Boo's childhood at SpeakEasy Stage Company's compellingly, heartwarming production of "Fun Home," especially when child Alison Bechdel and her brothers John and Christian romp and play in the caskets and funeral reception room, prancing, dancing around, singing their upbeat, pretend commercial for the funeral home, "Come to the Fun Home".

There's no way to not feel upbeat and joyous with these talented, fun-loving kids. Award-winning sixth-grader Marissa Simeqi marvelously portraying young Alison, Cameron Levesque portraying Christian and Luke Gold as John capture the audience's hearts - and laughter - with their mischievous shenanigans.

times of the actors, while music director Matthew Stern and the orchestra inhabit the fourth side of designer Cristina Todesco's cozy set, performing on a slightly raised platform.

The one-act memory play is based on real cartoonist Alison Bechdel, 43, (well-played by Amy Jo Jackson), at three pivotal stages of her life, as she traces happy highlights and awareness, contrasted by shocking, sad events. Theatergoers are actively immersed in every scene, traveling her biographical journey with her. Young Alison shares a special bond with her funeral director-teacher dad, Bruce (terrific Todd Yard) who, she says, loves his house and antiques. He's a regular guy, affectionately encouraging and guiding her through milestones. Ali-

Theatergoers surround the son's mother, Helen, (Laura stage on three sides, seated Marie Duncan) is more reticent, within touching distance at playing her piano, as she, the family, and friendly student house-helper Roy (Tyler Simahk) sing "Helen's Etude".

Life seems joyous, uncomplicated, even when Dad goes out at night on seemingly innocent forays.

Don't be fooled, though. This delightful comic-tragic musical, (aptly directed by SpeakEasy's multi-award winning producing artistic director Paul Daigneault), runs the emotional gamut, trading tears of laughter at times with tears of heartbreak, sadness, and loss.

Alison's life-turning moment occurs at age 19, when she meets college friend Joan (Desire' Graham), realizes she's a lesbian and revels in her first romantic encounter. Thoughtfully portraying middle Alison, Ellie van Amerongen joyously sings "Changing My Major," garnering enthusiastic applause. Alison's joy is shortlived, though. She's fearful about telling her parents. She calls and leaves a message, then brings Joan home for a visit. While Bruce accepts Alison's coming out, Helen is more reluctant. Alison didn't know her father shamefully came out of his deeply closeted life, and at age 43, (adult Alison's age), tragically solved his situation in soul-searching song, "Edges of the World," which Todd Yard delivers with aplomb." I had no way of knowing my beginning would be your end," says adult Alison.

"Fun Home" isn't your typical musical. It isn't your usual retrospective drama, either. It's a beautifully crafted, beautifully created true story about a young woman's lifetime journey and her triumph, overcoming shock, sadness and loss. Tesori took some poetic license with Bechdel's story, which Bechdel approved), making her story memorable and the musical enjoyable.

OBITUARIES

November 07, 1927 - November 03, 2018

Cornelius F. "Neil" passed away at the Marian Manor in South Boston on Saturday, Nov. 3. He was 90 years old. Born and raised in South Boston, a son of the late John Patrick and Sarah (Williams) Barnes, he graduated from South Boston High School and enlisted in the US Army during final days of World War II. He was honorably discharged in 1948 and returned to South Boston. Neil re-enlisted and served during the Korean conflict. Holding the rank of Sergeant, he served as an MP and was awarded three Bronze Stars before his discharge in 1953.

Neil again returned to his family home on Dorchester St. in So Boston. He worked for many years for the US Post Office as a clerk assigned to the office at North Station.

Being a Bruins fan and stationed next to the "old" Garden was one of the best jobs a hockey fan could hope for.

Neil married Helen E. (Benton) and settled in Chelsea residing there for nearly 60 years. Neil was widowed two and a half years ago after sharing 56 years of marriage. Neil received supportive care for the last two years as a resident at the Marian Manor, close to his boyhood neighborhood in South Boston. A devout Catholic, Neil never missed daily Mass held at the manor chapel.

Neil is fondly remembered for his deep and abiding faith, his sense of humor and his infectious laughter.

In addition to his parents and his beloved wife, he was also predeceased by his brother, John W. Barnes. He is survived by his cherished nephew and nieces: John Barnes and his wife, Kerry of Roslindale, Elaine McCall of Whitman and Margaret Barnes of Carver. He is also survived by several other beloved nieces, nephews, grandnieces and grandnephews. His Funeral will begin from the Frank A. Welsh & Sons Funeral Home, 718 Broadway, Chelsea on Friday, Nov. 9 at 10 a.m. followed by a Funeral Mass at St. Michael the Archangel Chapel (Chelsea Soldiers Home) 91 Crest Ave., Chelsea at 11 a.m. Services will conclude with Interment at Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett. Relatives and friends are most kindly invited to attend. In Memory of My Son's 14th Anniversary 1983 - 2004 Passing 10/21/04 JAMES M. JUSTICE II

In the spring, when the first crocus okes its head out of the frozen ground I think of you and I remember... I remember...

In the Summer, when the blaring heat wilts the rose petals and paints unsightly cracks in the ground, I think of you and I remember... I remember... In the Autumn, when the trees are ablaze in the glory of Fall and my shoes make crackling sounds I walk, I think of you and I remember... I remember...

And in the Winter, when I stand at my window to watch the blizzard whirl snow around my grief and loneliness then, too, I think of you and I remember... I remember.

BRUINS Beat by Bob Morello

Bruins continue garden homesand

Bruins fans had the right to eral occasions, before David be concerned about the team's current scoring drought before the puck dropped versus the Dallas Stars. Their previous three games resulted in two shutout losses, first to the Nashville Predators 1-0, and then 3-0 to the Montreal Canadiens, wrapped around a Bruins 3-2 win against the Carolina Hurricanes. Surely those thoughts were fresh in their minds, when Boston opened their four-game homestand Monday night at TD Garden to take on the Stars. Despite Jaroslav Halak having a hot hand and leading the NHL with a .952 save percentage, to go along with an impressive 1.45 goals-against-average, Bruins head coach Bruce Cassidy opted to give Tuukka Rask the start against the Stars. Fans expectedly got uncomfortable when Radek Faksa quickly beat Rask with a shorthanded (soft) goal on the first shot of the game, before the four-minute mark of the first period. In all fairness to Rask, despite the chorus of boos showered down on him following the goal, he was able to supply the Bs with a solid shutout effort for the next 60 minutes, stop-losses. Facing their former backup goaltender, Anton Khudobin which would have been his otes, and Detroit to take on the in the Stars' net, the Bruins first goal of the season, follow- Red Wings. had challenged him on sev-

ping 24 of the next 24 Dallas shots. His effort was rewarded as he brought his record

up over .500 to 4 wins and 3

Pastrnak was able to notch his 12th goal of the young season, to knot the score at 1-1. The score remained the same until 4:29 into the overtime when Brad Marchand, and the Bs on a 5-3 power play, took a pass from David Krejci and banked his shot off the far post to beat Khudobin and give Boston the 2-1 overtime win. Some undisciplined play and a math problem led to Boston receiving two power plays in the overtime, the first coming with Dallas having 'too many men' on the ice (3:27), and the second when Esa Lindell was caught cross-checking (3:27), allowing Marchand to score the winner – both minor penalties coming just 11 seconds apart.

For Boston it was a nice bounce back by Rask, following Dallas' quick goal off the mark, and a solid job by the Bruins' decimated blue line corps, who fought to keep the score close, despite missing key links as Charlie McAvoy and Kevan Miller on defense, and rookie Urho Vaakanainen. Having Torey Krug and Matt Grzelcyk, back in the lineup, along with forward David Backes, did allow some relief. The game had several bits of excitement in the form of dead-on crossbar rejections, hit posts, and even a waved off ing review of the play.

The excitement of the much-needed Bruins win was the follow-up to the Red Sox, who shared the 2018 World Series trophy with fans before the game. The Sox were represented by owner John Henry, team president Sam Kennedy, and Joe Kelly who celebrated the night with his toddler. Monday night was also Military Appreciation Night, the team saluted veterans and the areas military members, as nine Bruins players each chipped in by buying $2,500 worth of tickets donated to the military. After the Bruins' practice on Wednesday, the team hosted veterans in attendance at Warrior Ice Arena, and joined them for lunch. This is all part of the Bs salute throughout the month of November as they continue to honor members of the military.

Tonight (Thursday 7:00pm), the Bruins will continue their four-game homestand, taking on the Vancouver Canucks, before back-to-back games on the weekend with Toronto in on Saturday (7:00pm), and the Vegas Golden Knights supplying the opposition for Sunday's contest, also at 7:00pm. The Bruins then hit the road for a four-game tour with stops against the Colorado Avalanche (Wednesday 10/14 at 10:00pm), followed by games in Dallas to face the Bruins goal by Anders Bjork, Stars, Arizona with the Coy
